REWARD

The FBI is offering a reward of up to $5,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Dominic McCullough.

REMARKS

McCullough has ties to northeast Houston, Texas. He is believed to be homeless, possibly living between Jensen and the east Crosstimbers area.

CAUTION

Dominic McCullough is wanted for the alleged armed robbery of the Metro PCS store located at 3415 Orlando Street in north Houston, Texas, on July 15, 2021. McCullough allegedly walked to the counter and demanded money from the employees at gunpoint. He allegedly discharged his weapon into the floor, threatened customers at gunpoint, and stole money from the cash registers, as well as items from a customer's purse. McCullough left the store on foot. He was later positively identified and arrested by the Houston Police Department. McCullough was released on bond and never appeared for his hearing.

On June 29, 2022, a federal arrest warrant was issued for McCullough in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Texas, Houston, Texas, after he was charged with Interference with Commerce by Robbery and Discharging of a Firearm During and in Relation to a Crime of Violence.
